Jason Drew Keplar (Hartville)

JUN 6, 1969 - NOV 6, 2015

Jason "Scissors" Keplar was born June 6th, 1969 in Puyallup, Washington, to Richard and Joy Keplar. He was predeceased by his father Richard, in 1979, and his grandparents.

Joy, his mother, remarried in 1970 to Victor Mills. Victor raised Jason as his own son.

Jason has 3 brothers; Fred Keplar of Joplin, Victor "Leroy" Mills, Jr. of Enumclaw, WA, and Jessie Mills of Hartville.

Though Jason never married or had children of his own, he took Nathan "Bug" Clark as his own at a young age.

Jason tried his hand at diesel mechanics, and as a Longshoreman with Todd's Shipyards. He finally found his calling as a glazier and about this time he also gained the nickname of "Scissors". Jason loved to work with glass, and he loved to be high upon the side of a skyscraper putting in windows. He did specialize in glass doors and decorative pieces.

Jason was a charismatic person with a big personality and an even bigger heart. He loved all and all loved him. He always had a joke and tried to make everyone laugh.

Jason gave his life to the Lord Jesus at a young age but he rededicated himself to Christ within the past couple years.

Jason was also active with the Renton Old Timers annual picnic, where he did serve as the organization president.

When talking with Jason about the years growing up, one of his favorite lines was Ma would tell us "grab a towel and get in the truck" when one of the brothers got injured in some form.

Our heartfelt condolences we know how difficult it is to lose a child. Jason was always upbeat, willing to help. We have a jar of his hot sauce in the cupboard . How hot I don't know but makes us smile when we think about opening it. John and Priscilla Cotton

So many fun memories of Jason, when I lived in Renton, just down from the castle, he would 'happen to stop by' when it was dinner time, then stay and chit chat for most of the night. He would bring his guitar over and sing to my kids, he would always make up 'the Emily' song, it was never the same twice but had the same chorus line each time, and then he would laugh and laugh... He had a heart of gold, and would stop by to check on me, and was a great friend when I was leaving an abusive relationship, he was a champion for me.To his family: my heart goes out to you all, know that he is missed and he was loved.Much respect,Emily Cotton

Marie Hattabaugh sent a virtual gift in honor of Jason.

Our thoughts and prayers are with Jason's family during this difficult time. We can take comfort in the scriptures, for our Heavenly Father Jehovah cares for us, " God is a refuge and strength, a help that is readily found in times of distress." Ps 46:1.
