Wilma was a wonderful neighbor, and was called Grandma by everyone in the Senior Housing where she lived. She loved to go on the Oats bus. She loved people and loved her God. She also loved OMP and being in the play. She was Grandma to all the cast members, and you could see how much they loved her by just looking out the window to see who was picking her up or bringing her home from practice. She was looking forward to this years performances so much. She had fallen and hit her head, but was telling the ambulance crew she could no go to have stitches put in because try outs were in a few days and they might keep her in hospital and she had to go to try outs. She knocked on my door when she came back so I would know she was home and would be OK. I along with everyone who knew her will miss her. But, I know she is singing and dancing in Heaven with her Lord.

Wilma was fun and funny. She enjoyed life and she wanted to share her joy with everyone she met. She loved children of all ages. She loved the theater OMP and made each performance special. We will miss you Wilma.
