his own real estate company “Kempton Realty”.

In 1982, he and his family moved to Missouri, which consisted of 14 people and 4 dogs. He worked for Paul Mueller in Springfield, working as an escort delivering stainless steel tanks all over the United States. He later got his funeral director’s license and began transporting for all of the local funeral homes.

Fred loved the horse races and had a race horse named “Low Tension”. In his spare time he enjoyed fishing and travelling in his motorhome. His favorite hobby was model airplanes. He was an excellent model airplane builder and enjoyed flying them as well. But most of all Fred loved being with his family, who always spent Christmas and many holidays together.

Fred was a loving husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather who will always be loved and remembered by those left behind. We celebrate his life and many accomplishments and will remember those fond memories of our times together forever.
