On June 5, 1968, he was united in marriage to Donna Fay King, and to this union one son was born.

He was preceded in death by his parents; and a brother, Bobby Gene Henson. “Dude”, as he was called by his family and friends, is survived by his wife of fifty-two years, Donna, of the home; a son, Ed Henson, and his fiancée, Nae, of Phillipsburg, Missouri; four grandchildren, Corey Henson, and his wife, Samantha, Sam Henson, Levi Henson, and Hannah Henson; a great-grandson, Payton; three brothers, Roy Lee Henson, of Chico, California, Ray Henson, and his wife, Jean, of Lebanon, Missouri, and Glen Henson, and his wife, Carol, of Marshfield, Missouri; a number of nieces and nephews; as well as a host of other relatives and friends.

He returned to the Conway area, and began working at Independent Stave Company in Lebanon, which is now Missouri Cooperage. Once he and Donna were married, they made their home on a farm in the Phillipsburg community and lovingly raised their son. Dude worked for Regal Beloit for twenty-five years before retiring. He continued to own and operate his farm throughout his life.

Loyd had attended the Harmony Baptist Church through the years.

He greatly enjoyed being outdoors where his favorite activities were fishing, camping, and cutting wood. He liked traveling and playing games with his family. He enjoyed working on his son and grandson’s race cars and serving as a mechanic and Dude was one of the rare people that you meet in life who are genuine you knew where he stood and where he stood with you. No one worked harder or loved his family more than he did. Over the years we shared a lot of, sometimes precarious, good times but he always had my back no matter what. he never found a job too hard to give it his best. we who are lucky enough to have called him friend and family will never forget the wonderful influence he had on each of us. he will always be missed but never forgotten. my sympathy for the family is overwhelming but may God bless and keep you all.
