and the animals.

In her spare time, Christine liked gardening, baking and candy making. She was a great cook and shared her talents with her work friends and her family. When her loving husband Howard was still living, they spent time doing jigsaw puzzles.

Most of all, Christine loved her family, especially her precious grandchildren and great-grandchildren. They brought her so much joy and she enjoyed spending time with them.

Her loss is deeply felt by her family, and she will be so missed. We celebrate her life and accomplishments and know that her family and friends will treasure the wonderful memories she made with them.
